

Little Mermaid Audition Scene 2

JANAGGA (Ursula) - Come, my ugly ones. Come, my little sea-urchins. Where are you, my spiny little horrors, my prickly little pests? It is I, Jannaga, the Sea Witch, She of the Three Eyes, who calls you. Come, come, come, come, my little kitties. Ah, here you are, my creatures, Stare into my third eye so that you will know who your mistress is. Look deep into the glowing green so that you will remember where my power lies. Bow low to your Queen! Today is the the day of the spring tides when both sun and moon pull with great force at the waves of all the oceans of the earth and raise them into mountains of water. Today my power is at its greatest, for I focus the energy of the sun and moon through my third eye. Today I will do mischief! And you will all help me, won't you, you spiritless little servants. Mollymawk, Mollymawk, my Albatross, my familiar, my beautiful bird of ill-omen! Mother calls you to help her on this day of evil! Mollymawk? Mollymawk! Ah, Mollymawk....do you know what day it is today?
